

Welcome to the Vance minute. I'm Joe B. Wiles with the Public Affairs Office...

Colonel Clark Quinn took command of the 71st Flying Training Wing June 18 during a ceremony attended by friends, family and the men and women of Team Vance.

Colonel Quinn accepted the position when Gen. Robin Rand, commander of the Air Education and Training Command, passed him the unit guidon.

Colonel Quinn is a command pilot with more than 2,500 flying hours in the F-15 and F-16 fighter aircraft.

The 33rd Flying Training Squadron, one of two units that teach student pilots to fly the T-6A Texan II at Vance, also has a new commander.

Lt Col Michael Starr replaced Navy Cmdr Christopher Narducci during a ceremony held June 16.

Commander Narducci is the last of a long tradition of Navy pilots commanding a flying training unit at Vance.

That's your Vance Minute...have a great Air Force day.
